2. The Story

Woohoo, it's Saturday! I love Saturday mornings because it's market day. My alarm rings at 7 AM, but today I'm already awake and excited to go with Mom. We always try to arrive just after 8 o'clock.

Our market is a very colourful place. The stall owners are busy setting up. They make their stalls bright with lots of colours. There are fresh fruits and vegetables everywhere, and beautiful handmade crafts too. The air is full of wonderful smells!

Mom always goes to the food stalls first. She loves Maria's warm soup and her sweet dried fruit. I head straight to the fresh juice stall. The friendly lady squeezes the juice right in front of me. Today I choose strawberry. It's so fresh and delicious – my special treat!

After the juice, I buy a small bag of crispy banana chips. They remind me of snacks from when I was little. Our basket gets heavier as we walk around.

I feel grateful for all the stall owners. They wake up very early to bring us fresh food and lovely things. When we leave the market, our basket is full and our hearts are happy.
