

SHORT STORY

A LONG WEEKEND

Yippee! We have a four-day weekend! I have looked so forward to this weekend! I work for a very busy company and can do with some days away from the office.

My friends and I have no plans for the weekend. We just want to sleep late and do a few exciting things at night.

There's a new dance club that opened last month. My friend is the DJ, so I think we will go and visit on Friday night. He is very good at his job and would love to see us there. On Saturday evening, there's a live concert in the main square. It's a very popular band and one of my favorites. We bought tickets yesterday. They were expensive, but the band is really awesome!

We are four girls sharing an apartment. Each of us has her own bedroom so we can do what we like there. We like to watch movies together and I think we'll do that on Sunday. We take turns preparing dinner and this coming Sunday I will make pasta with a green salad.

We are so lucky to live in this apartment. We share the rent and there is a swimming pool and a small garden. When we have a party, our friends like to swim. We wear sunscreen and try not to spend too much time in the sun as it could harm our skin. I always wear my sunglasses.

Mom spoils me from time to time. She brings us some groceries because she knows young people do not always buy healthy food. We like pizzas and some other junk food. Mom always says: a healthy body needs healthy food!

I am going to take a nap now. We want to go out and I need to look fresh and beautiful because I have a date with a cute boy!
