

FILL THE GAPS

bug to-do surge eager surpass hitting savings around unmet lockdowns

Surveys around the world indicate a _____ in travel is coming. Despite restrictions from COVID-19, people around the world are more eager than ever to get out of the house and feed their travel _____. Whether it's to new places, old favorites, or simply anywhere _____ the corner, people simply want to get out of their homes, reconnect with themselves, friends, and family, and make new memories unrelated to _____ or quarantining.

As many people have been able to stock up on their _____ during the pandemic, surveys show that traveling comes in second on the top _____ list of people across the world, just after dining out. In America, leisure trips will most likely _____ those of business and are already _____ a few million per day; while in China almost half of the prospective travelers are more _____ for a longer trip outside of China than ever before.

As this demand for travel rises, a shortage of hospitality workers may prove problematic. With many job losses in the hospitality industry occurring due to the pandemic, many travelers might find their demands _____ as the industry grapples to recover to pre-COVID capacity.

=====

Fill in the gaps - Travel Tips!

Complete the sentences with "should" or "shouldn't" to give travel advice.

1. You _____ pack light clothes if you're traveling to a hot country.
2. You _____ bring an adapter if you're visiting a country with different electrical outlets.
3. You _____ try the local food, even if it looks unfamiliar.
4. You _____ exchange all your money at the airport, as rates might be better in the city.
5. You _____ be afraid to ask for directions if you get lost.
6. You _____ forget to pack a reusable water bottle to save money and plastic waste.
7. You _____ spend all your time at tourist attractions, explore hidden gems too!
8. You _____ be rude to locals, even if there's a language barrier.
9. You _____ learn some basic phrases in the local language before you go.
10. You _____ take photos of everything, sometimes enjoy the moment without a screen!

Teacher's Key

Surveys around the world indicate a surge in travel is coming. Despite restrictions from COVID-19, people around the world are more eager than ever to get out of the house and feed their travel bug. Whether it's to new places, old favorites, or simply anywhere around the corner, people simply want to get out of their homes, reconnect with themselves, friends, and family, and make new memories unrelated to lockdowns or quarantining.

As many people have been able to stock up on their savings during the pandemic, surveys show that traveling comes in second on the top to-do list of people across the world, just after dining out. In America, leisure trips will most likely surpass those of business and are already hitting a few million per day; while in China almost half of the prospective travelers are more eager for a longer trip outside of China than ever before.

As this demand for travel rises, a shortage of hospitality workers may prove problematic. With many job losses in the hospitality industry occurring due to the pandemic, many travelers might find their demands unmet as the industry grapples to recover to pre-COVID capacity.

Fill in the gaps - Travel Tips!

Complete the sentences with "should" or "shouldn't" to give travel advice.

1. You should pack light clothes if you're traveling to a hot country.
2. You should bring an adapter if you're visiting a country with different electrical outlets.
3. You should try the local food, even if it looks unfamiliar.
4. You shouldn't exchange all your money at the airport, as rates might be better in the city.
5. You shouldn't be afraid to ask for directions if you get lost.
6. You should forget to pack a reusable water bottle to save money and plastic waste.
7. You shouldn't spend all your time at tourist attractions, explore hidden gems too!
8. You shouldn't be rude to locals, even if there's a language barrier.
9. You should learn some basic phrases in the local language before you go.
10. You shouldn't take photos of everything, sometimes enjoy the moment without a screen!