

BEING POLITE

Student A

1. Can you think of a situation where someone's politeness made a positive impact on you?
2. How do you define politeness in your own words?
3. What are some common misconceptions about being polite?
4. Can you recall a time when you had to be polite in a difficult situation?
5. How does being polite differ from being insincere or fake?
6. What are some key skills or traits required to be polite?
7. Can you think of a cultural or social norm that influences polite behavior?
8. How does being polite impact personal and professional relationships?
9. Can you describe a situation where being polite helped resolve a misunderstanding?
10. How does being polite relate to active listening and empathy?
11. Can you think of a scenario where being polite is crucial (e.g., a job interview, meeting new people)?
12. How does technology (e.g., social media, email) affect polite communication?

Student B

1. What are some common challenges or obstacles to being polite?
2. Can you think of a time when someone else's politeness impressed or inspired you?
3. How does being polite relate to respect and consideration for others?
4. Can you describe a situation where being polite helped build trust or credibility?
5. How does being polite differ from avoiding conflict or confrontation?
6. What are some potential risks or downsides of being overly polite?
7. Can you think of a historical figure or leader known for their politeness?
8. How does being polite impact our self-perception and confidence?
9. Can you recall a situation where being polite helped diffuse tension?
10. How does being polite relate to assertiveness and setting boundaries?
11. Can you think of a scenario where being polite is necessary for building alliances or partnerships?
12. How does being polite impact our relationships with people from different cultural backgrounds?