

A BICYCLE TRIP

The Smith family sat around the dinner table, poring over maps and travel brochures. They had decided to take a cycling vacation, but couldn't agree on a destination.

"I think we should go to France!" said Emily, 12. "I've always wanted to see the Eiffel Tower!"

"But what about Italy?" countered Jack, 9. "I want to ride through the countryside and eat pizza!"

Rachel, their mother, suggested, "Why not try somewhere new, like Croatia or Slovenia? We could explore the coast and mountains."

Tom, their father, chimed in, "I've always wanted to visit Canada. We could ride through the Rocky Mountains and see breathtaking scenery."

The debate continued, with each family member presenting their case. Where would they finally decide to go?
