

THIS THAT THESE THOSE

A. Introduction to "This, That, These, Those"

What are Demonstrative Pronouns?

We use this, that, these, and those to talk about objects and their location. These words tell us:

- If something is near or far
- If we are talking about one thing or more than one

Understanding the Difference

Singular

Near → This (one object)

Far → That (one object)

Plural

Near → These (more than one)

Far → Those (more than one)

Real-Life Examples

- Imagine you're holding a book. You say: "This book is interesting."
- Imagine there is a book on a faraway shelf. You say: "That book looks old."
- Imagine you have several books in your hands. You say: "These books are heavy!"
- Imagine there are many books far away. You say: "Those books belong to the library."

Try It Yourself!
