1. Is the BBQ Still Relevant?

Discuss:

Why are barbecues popular in so many different countries?

Consider:

- family
- friendship
- outdoor life
- traditions
- food
- weather
- socialising
- convenience

3. The Social Rules of a Barbecue

Imagine you are writing a guide for someone who has never been to a barbecue before.

Write five rules.

For example:

Don't arrive empty-handed.

Now create four more.

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____
4. _____

Compare your rules with another pair.

2. Cultural Comparison

How is outdoor eating different in your country and another country?

Discuss:

- What people eat
- Who cooks
- When people eat
- Where people sit
- What people drink
- What people do after eating

Find at least three similarities and three differences.

4. Spot the Differences — The Bigger Challenge

Choose five differences between Pictures A and B.

For each one, don't simply say what changed.

Explain:

1. What changed?
2. Why might it have changed?
3. Which version do you prefer?

Example: The umbrella is different. Perhaps the weather changed, so they used a different umbrella. I prefer Picture A because...

5. Writing Challenge

Write 150–180 words:

The Perfect Outdoor Meal

Describe your ideal outdoor meal.

Include:

- where it happens
- who comes
- what you eat
- what you drink
- what people do
- what could go wrong
- why it would be memorable

6. Final Discussion

Choose one question.

- Is a barbecue really about food, or is it mainly about socialising?
- Why do people enjoy cooking outside?
- Can a bad meal still be part of a great experience?
- Are traditional outdoor meals becoming less common?
- What makes people remember a meal for years?

Students should give reasons, examples and personal experiences.
