

MY BEDROOM

© talkmor.com

The Bedroom Negotiation

A teenager wants a completely new bedroom.
The parents have a small budget and very different ideas.
Role-play the negotiation.
Try to find a compromise that everyone can accept.

Bedroom Makeover Competition

In groups, design the best bedroom for a chosen person.
Decide:

- | | |
|--------------|---------|
| • furniture | colours |
| • technology | storage |
| • decoration | |

Present your bedroom to the class.

Lifestyle Article

Write the opening of a magazine article:
Why Our Bedrooms Are Changing
Think about:

- technology
- work and study
- storage
- social media
- changing lifestyles

Final Question

If your bedroom had a personality, what would it be—and why?

Deep Discussion

Discuss:

1. Is privacy a right?
2. Should children help design their bedrooms?
3. Is it better to own fewer things?
4. Does a messy room really matter?
5. Should parents be allowed to control how their children's rooms look?

One-Minute Challenge

Speak for one minute:

"A bedroom says a lot about the person who lives there."

- Do you agree?
- Why or why not?

Creative Challenge

Invent a bedroom that does something unusual.

Perhaps:

- the bed changes shape
- the walls display memories
- the room automatically tidies itself
- the furniture moves by itself
- the room changes colour depending on your mood

Explain how your bedroom works.